(February 14, 2012 Stillwater, OK) – Oklahoma State University's Center for Veterinary Health Sciences will host a Pet Care Seminar on Tuesday, March 6, at 7 p.m. in McElroy Hall Auditorium. Cornelia Ketz-Riley, DVM, will present "Wildlife in Your Backyard." Pet Care Seminars are open to the public at no charge.

Dr. Ketz-Riley will talk about how to use landscape to make wildlife feel welcome. She will also discuss how to design your backyard to discourage other, unwanted wildlife.

Ketz-Riley is the head of the Avian, Exotic and Zoo Medicine Service at OSU veterinary center's Boren Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital. She earned her degree from the College of Veterinary Medicine, University of Zuerich in Switzerland and is a Diplomate of the American College of Zoological Medicine.

McElroy Hall is located at the corner of Farm Road and McFarland on the west end of the OSU Stillwater campus. Complimentary parking and light refreshments will be available.

The Oklahoma State University Center for Veterinary Health Sciences is the only veterinary college in Oklahoma and one of 28 veterinary colleges in the United States and is fully accredited by the Council on Education of the American Veterinary Medical Association. The center's Boren Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital is open to the public and provides routine and specialized care for small and large animals. It also offers 24-hour emergency care and is certified by the American Animal Hospital Association. For more information, visit www.cvhs.okstate.edu or call (405) 744-7000.
