(Stillwater, Okla., February 12, 2013) – Oklahoma State University's Center for Veterinary Health Sciences invites the public to attend a Pet Care Seminar on Tuesday, March 5, at 7 p.m. in the McElroy Hall Auditorium. Danielle Dugat, DVM, MS, will present "Ouch, My Back Hurts."

Dr. Dugat is a lecturer at OSU's veterinary hospital and a small animal surgeon. She will share information about the dogs that can develop back problems and specifically disk ruptures. Dr. Dugat will provide attendees with early signs to look for, available treatment options, and more.

There is no charge to attend. McElroy Hall is located at the corner of McFarland and Farm Road on the west end of the OSU Stillwater campus. Complimentary parking and light refreshments will be available.

Contact: Derinda Blakeney, APR | OSU Center for Veterinary Health Sciences | 405-744-6740 | derinda@okstate.edu

Oklahoma State University is a modern land-grant university. OSU's Center for Veterinary Health Sciences is the only veterinary college in Oklahoma. One of 28 veterinary colleges in the United States, it is fully accredited by the Council on Education of the American Veterinary Medical Association. The center's Boren Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital is open to the public and provides routine and specialized care for small and large animals. It also offers 24-hour emergency care and is certified by the American Animal Hospital Association. OSU is preparing students for a brighter future and building a brighter world for all. OSU improves the lives of people in Oklahoma, the nation, and the world through integrated, high quality teaching, research and outreach. For more information, visit www.cvhs.okstate.edu or call (405) 744-7000.

###